These multi agency training sessions, developed through the Grampian Gender Based Abuse Training Consortium, will increase the participants' awareness and understanding of what Domestic Abuse is - the scope of the issue and who is affected. They will help to dispel common myths about domestic abuse and violence against women and enable potential case-holders/ line managers to be better equipped to support a person who is experiencing domestic abuse. The training will identify local and national support services for victims of domestic abuse and best practice

The sessions are aimed at: Social Workers, Health Professionals, Substance Misuse Staff, Clergy, Community Education Workers, Youth Workers, Mental Health Practitioners, Voluntary Sector Workers, Police & Criminal Justice Workers, Teachers any frontline worker who comes into contact with people who may be living in families where Domestic Abuse is an issue.
